Are you Shore?

My mother, born in Deloraine in 1885, was named Bertha Shorey WOODBERRY. 'Bertha Shorey' was the name of one of two girls whose parents died in an accident and who were brought up by some cousins of ours', my mother told me.

Many years after the two Berthas had died, I often found myself thinking what great friends the SHOREYS and WOODBERRYS must have been for my mother to be named after one of the Shorey girls.

Later still, when I began searching family origins in earnest, I found out from the Tasmanian Archives that my great grandparents were buried at St Marks, Deloraine. I contacted that source and a Mrs Joyce Blazely sent me an impressive list of Woodberry births, deaths and marriages, among which was the marriage of my mother's parents, John WOODBERRY and Mary WALKER, in 1880 - at the house of Mr Shorey. Ahah! I thought, the Shorey parents were still alive in 1880 anyway! As my mother was born in 1885, I assumed the 'accident' happened within those five years. I was getting very interested in these Shoreys. Who were they? In a small book 'Early Deloraine' by Louise Meredith and Daniel Griffin, I read that Samuel Shorey had been a member of the first Deloraine Council way back in 1863, and that he was a miller. But nothing else seemed available at the time so that is where I left the matter ... UNTIL.

One day in July of last year, as a new member of the N.Z. Genealogy Society, I strolled along the street to a local Day Meeting of genealogists. Not really knowing what I wanted to search first (there is always so much), I picked up a four-year-old English journal and idly leafed through it until Wham! I saw, in capital letters, the name FAWDRY. My grandmother, Mary WALKER who married John WOODBERRY in the house of Mr. Shorey was the daughter of Mary FAWDRY and Francis WALKER who married in England and came out to Tasmania. (I had been sent the FAWDRY family tree from a new-found cousin living near Launceston). In some excitement, I took down the address of the person searching that name. It was the Rev Frank BEST in Essex. I wrote off right away out of sheer curiosity, for I had the family back to 1622 then in France. Before July was through, back came the reply. He had, in that 4 years, moved to another address, but my letter had been sent on. He was 'delighted' to know that someone as far away as N.Z. had a copy of the same tree he had! I had scored a bullseye! By way of proving our '5th cousin once removed' relationship, he faithfully copied out our two branches from his tree, for comparison. Some of the dates were just a year or two out, but otherwise we matched up beautifully. But wait! What was this? Alongside 'Mary FAWDRY married Mr WALKER; they sailed to Tasmania' was 'Esther FAWDRY (Mary's sister) married Mr SHOREY; they sailed to Tasmania.' That information was not on my copy of the tree!

So here were 'some cousins of ours' who brought up the two orphan girls! They were obviously legally adopted by the SHOREYS who, dare I assume (!) had no children of their own and were then middle-aged. It seems so by the answer I received from my Query in the December 1983 Tasmanian Ancestry. Helen Anderson in Devonport and Valerie Trickett in Liena, (near Mole Creek), both sent the death dates of Esther and Samuel SHOREY. Samuel died 10 November 1888 aged 64 and Esther died 7 September 1894 aged 77. Both were buried at St Marks on the hill. Bertha SHOREY (then ELLIOTT) died in New Zealand as did my mother, Bertha Shorey WOODBURY, who married her cousin Frank WOODBURY.

In sighting Bertha Elliott's death entry, (died 1958 aged 87), I confirmed that her parents were entered as Esther and Samuel Shorey, and her mother's maiden name was FAWDRY. This proved a legal adoption.

Not for me to enquire further into the girls' original surnames. Let them be.

By this episode, anyone can see the folly of assuming things. I admit that folly and it makes a refreshing change from my too frequent condemnation of others who have given assumed information.

Family Reunions

PECK REUNION

Descendants of Joshua PECK and Mary FROST will be holding a family get-together on Sunday 10th March 1985, at the Myrtle Park Recreation Ground, starting at 11.00 am. Joshua Peck came out as a convict, and married Mary Frost, producing 13 children. Their descendants are scattered throughout Tasmania and also the mainland. For further information you can contact Mr Roy Peck, 17 Martin Place, Kings Meadows, 7249 or Mrs Kaye Kane, 31 Ernest St, Kings Meadows.

HODGETTS REUNION

A reunion of descendants of Thomas and Harriet HODGETTS will be held on Saturday 16 March 1985 at the Longford Show Ground.

Thomas (C1761-1823) and Harriet (C1765-1850) arrived in NSW aboard ships of the Second Fleet in 1790, one of only 6 married couples allowed to sail in the fleet. Nearly one third of those convicts died on that trip. Although Harriet was a free woman, Thomas was not so lucky. He and Thomas COLLIER were convicted at Stafford Assizes in 1788 of stealing a flich of bacon belonging to Gilbert HOUGHTON of Staffordshire. Both were sentenced to 7 years. Thomas and Harriet seemed to have lived for the first 10 years around Sydney. Thomas probably worked as a blacksmith.

In 1800 they moved to Norfolk Island where Thomas worked as a constable and a blacksmith until returning to Sydney in 1805 where he became Superintendent of the Government blacksmiths.

Their first son John came to VDL during 1816 with his wife Olivia (nee LUCAS) and three children and settled at Norfolk Plains. Thomas and Harriet followed in 1819 with six children and farmed with John at Norfolk Plains. Thomas and Harriet's children married into the following families:

LUCAS (2), GRAHAM, LAUSON, COX, KEATING, FLINT.

Next generations married into: BRUMBY, DAVEY, MILLER, FAGAN, SUMMERS, BRITT, WADLEY (3), PARFITT, SALTMARSH (2), SMITH, GRIFFITHS, SQUIRES, ALLAN, SYDES, WHEELER, SAUNDERS, REYNOLDS, HOLGATE, HILL, THOMPSON, BOXMILL, SPENCER, BUCKLEY, FLANNERY, LEE.

Most of these descendants were modest farmers living in the Longford, Cressy, Westbury, Blackwood Creek, Rosevale, Deloraine, Devonport and Burnie areas. Anyone with information, photos, stories etc or anyone wanting to attend please contact Richard Hodgetts, C/- PO Karoola, Tas. 7254. Ph 003 954187.

This article was provided for us on request. .....

It is a well known fact that all Australians, like Tasmanian Aborigines, are of a mixed genetic origin. To argue any racial identity on genetics alone is purely academic and irrelevant in terms of ancestral cultural identity.

I have met 'Aboriginal descendants' who do not identify and are not Aboriginal. I have also met Greeks, Poles and other ethnic people who will say "I'm not Greek, Polish etc simply because they have taken Australian nationality. On the other hand I have met ethnic people who are nationalised Australians, yet hold fast to their particular ethnic identity.

I am a direct descendant of Manalargenna, a past hero in the Aboriginal movement. Many of my people know their tribal ancestors and their genealogy, we are resurrecting pride in our identity because we are Tasmanian Aborigines.

In fact I am but six times removed in family descent from my tribal people; many more Aborigines are of the same situation. White Australians would need to go back thousands of years to trace their tribal ancestors. Tasmanian Aborigines of today have a living culture; sure its not easily recognised, but it's there. In some cases certain aspects of our culture are not recognised because white people happen to have taken up similar activities.

For example, kangaroo and wallaby hunting and mutton bird operations. Other aspects are outlawed by the legal system, such as collecting swan eggs and mutton bird eggs. Nevertheless, we have customary activities handed down to us which will continue through our children. Also of prime importance, is the way in which we understand ourselves as Aborigines and our philosophy which has developed and changed with the presence of other dominant cultures.

"The history books say that the Tasmanian Aboriginal population was wiped out when Truganini died in 1876. What they ignored is that in the period of say 30-40 years before 1876, and in the whole period leading up to today, many Aboriginal women and men (with white wives) had children. These children weren't recognised as existing; they hardly even counted in the Aboriginal population, and so when the population figure was in fact down around 1,000 the history books said that there were no more Tasmanian Aborigines." * (* Arena, No 501978).

I ask those who are understanding of ancestral and cultural identity to support recognition of us as Aboriginal People.

Library Notes

Since the beginning of October, the library has been open on Wednesday evenings, 7-9 pm. This will continue until the end of daylight saving.

During the Christmas - New Year period, the library will be open Wednesdays only, 9-30th January, mornings (9.30am-12.30pm) and evenings (7-9pm). Usual hours will be resumed from the beginning of February.

The Latter Day Saints library at Glenorchy is now open to the public, Tuesdays 6.30-9 pm and Fridays 9.30am-12 noon and 6.30-9pm. This library complements our own. It contains, on microfilms and microfiches, indexes to various kinds of material held at Salt Lake City covering the period before about 1870 eg British parish registers, British censuses to 1871, IGI and the complete card catalogue of the Genealogical Department of the Church. Films may be ordered and used at the library for a fee of $3.50 for two weeks.

Rules for use of the L.D.S. Library are much the same as our own. One particular rule is stressed by both: microfiches and microfilms are to be withdrawn from, and replaced in, the files by staff only. This rule is ignored from time to time by some of our own members and visitors, in spite of the notice on the filing cabinet, with the result that we have had some headaches over lost or misplaced fiches. So - hands off our drawers!

New books added to the library recently include Phillimore's Atlas & Index of Parish Registers, Australian Dictionary of Biography, The Forefathers: a dictionary of biography of the Jews of Australia 1788-1830 (Levi), One hundred years of witness: a history of the Hobart Baptist Church, 1884-1984 (Rowston), William & Mary Ann Gibson (Luxford) and A Christmas garland (Maddock & Easter). Don't forget that we can supply to distant members photocopies of material in our collection, subject to the usual rules of copyright. And don't forget that we welcome suggestions for additions to the library. We want our shelves to contain the information our members need to help their research.

Negotiations are under way at present for new premises in Bellerive. Nothing definite at time of writing these notes, but we'll keep you posted.

In any research or educational institution worth its salt, the library occupies a central position, sometimes physically so. Our library system exists to help the Society's members, and others interested in genealogy, to further their research, so it is central to the Society's activities and becomes a criterion by which the Society is judged. That's why, in each branch library, we like to be 'on the ball' as far as our resources will allow.

The library at 3 Percy St, Bellerive, is the biggest and oldest part of our Society's library system, simply because the Society began in Hobart. It is the central library for the Society as well as being the Hobart branch library. It has a committee to run it in Hobart, but is also linked with the State Executive.

Like most libraries nowadays, ours would be better called a resource centre because it contains a great deal more than the printed matter that one expects to see in a library. Besides reference books and journals, it also houses material on microfiches (to which will soon be added microfilms), card indexes, and a collection of pedigree charts and family trees, as yet not extensively developed. We have also the beginnings of collections of maps, photographs and newspaper clippings, to be efficiently organised when space permits.

The book collection aims to provide practical assistance in tracing family trees and setting out genealogies, while also providing historical and descriptive background to the periods and the countries in which members are interested. It includes how-to-do-it books, local and regional histories, church histories, family histories, atlases, gazetteers, genealogical research directories, printed collections of cemetery inscriptions, electoral rolls, telephone books, street directories, year books, shipping lists etc. etc. Although a card catalogue is provided as a key to the collection, you really need to browse amongst the bookshelves to appreciate what is there. Daytime sessions are often busy - why not come on Wednesday evening (open during daylight saving 7-9 pm) to avoid the crowds?

Incidentally, we are only too well aware of severe limitations of space in our present home. At present it looks as though we can be confident of acquiring more spacious premises in the not-distant future. You will be kept posted.

All genealogists understand the importance of indexes. The variety is endless of sources which can produce information useful in research, usually needing to be approached through an index. We have 'home-made' indexes to transcriptions of Tasmanian cemeteries, to The Mercury Births, Deaths and Marriages columns (1900 onwards), to names on certificates acquired, but not required, and to queries in journals. There are endless possibilities for things-that-can-be-indexed. Do you have any ideas in this regard? If so, please tell someone at the library.

These card indexes are housed in the reception area of the library, behind the counter. In all cases, they are arranged alphabetically by surnames and will direct you to where further information may be found. The cemetery index includes cross-references to names other than the main one on a tombstone. It is accompanied by typed lists, standing in black ring-binders next to the filing cabinet, of the "contents" of particular cemeteries. These are grouped in municipalities.

The Mercury index is self-explanatory and has pinned above it on the wall, a list of the years indexed so far. The Unwanted Certificates are at present housed in folders in a marked box underneath the bench on which the wooden filing drawers stand. A search of this index may reveal, for instance, that a person about whom information eludes you was a witness at a marriage at a certain place and date.

The aforementioned indexes may be used by everyone. The "Staff Only" ones are the Registrar's File of Members' Interests and the microfiches and the notices that say Staff Only mean just that. There has been more than enough trouble in the past when unauthorised people have removed cards or fiches and re-filed them wrongly.

The Registrar's File is a card index of research interests of members, state-wide. It is cross-indexed, and a list of members' addresses accompanies it so that an enquirer may be put in touch with a member who is researching a name in which he or she is interested.

On microfiches, the library holds the International Genealogical Index (IGI), indexes to N.S.W. Registrar General's records (1856-1899 but including some earlier material from various sources) and to Queensland marriages and deaths (but not births) 1856-1899. Victorian post-office directories in a broken sequence, 1868-1899, are reproduced in full. The best way to approach the latter is either by the name index at the end of each year, or by scanning the names listed under each town. The N.S.W. and Queensland indexes are arranged in sections for births (and baptisms, where appropriate), deaths (and burials where appropriate) and marriages. Within these sections they are arranged by year, then surname. They give registration numbers, which you should quote when writing for certificates.

The IGI, briefly, is an index to over 80,000,000 names stored in the computer file held by the Genealogical Department of the Latter Day Saints Church in Salt Lake City, Utah. It is a worldwide, continuing project which includes names extracted, where permission has been given to do so, from parish registers and other records, as well as information given by church members. To use it, you need to know the county (in U.K.) or State (USA), province or other country division in which your ancestor lived. Within the county (etc) names are listed alphabetically, then by date, giving details of births, christenings and marriages. Fuller information may be obtained from the L.D.S. Church by quoting the batch and serial sheet numbers given on the IGI fiches. If you haven't used the IGI before, the library assistants will be happy to help you.

A feature of the IGI often overlooked, is the set of fiches at the beginning, entitled Parish and Vital Records Listings. This indicates what areas in each country are included and at which periods. You may save some unnecessary searching by remembering to consult these first.

The journal collection includes nearly 100 titles from other Australian states, New Zealand and the U.K. I cannot stress too much the importance of browsing through journals. They all contain articles of interest on a variety of topics, many of them have annual indexes to titles and subjects, and most of them contain queries from members. You may be able to answer someone's query, or you may find that someone has the answer to your query. Many family history societies publish directories of members' interests from time to time, and we keep these separately at the end of the shelving where back numbers are kept. Current issues are displayed on the rack near this. At the bottom of this shelving is our collection of telephone directories (not extensive, and directories for places beyond Tasmania would be welcome donations) and electoral rolls.

The key to the library collection is the card catalogue. This is kept in the reception area, along with the other card indexes. It lists by author, title and subject, the contents of the library. It answers the questions "Have you a book by this author, entitled such-and-such?" or "What books have you by this author?" or "Have you a book of this title?" or "What books have you on this subject?". It is arranged in two alphabetical files, author-title and subject. The information on the main entry card for each book tells you author title, publisher, place and date of publication. (Other entries for each book are briefer, to save typing). The call-number in the top, lefthand corner directs you to the place on the book-shelves where the books have the same number written on a label on their spines or their front covers. (All right we know the shelves are often untidy - you might have to search a bit!). If the number is prefaced by "Q", you have to look on the bottom shelves where the quarto sized books live.

Work on the catalogue is always in progress, so don't be alarmed if you don't find there the entry for which you're searching - it might be something very new, as yet un-filed.

The library is classified and arranged in the same way as your local public library - we thought this would help you to find your way about. In new premises, we'll be better able to set things out to help the user.

To help the branch funds along as well as to help the researcher, we sell charts and booklets on topics of genealogical interest. "Charts" includes pedigree charts (5-15 generations), family group charts and pictorial family tree charts. We can purchase titles of interest in bulk quantities from such booksellers as Gould Books for re-sale here. Back copies of our own journal are available on sale.

Last but not least among sales, are British air mail stamps for which we charge 70c. Financially this is a much better proposition than sending International Reply Coupons to accompany your self-addressed envelopes when writing overseas.

Items for sale at the library are also available at the bookstall at monthly meetings. The library has a photocopier, from which copies of printed matter may be made (subject to copyright rules) for 15c per sheet. The reader-printer will produce for you copies of microfiches for 40c. Both these machines are Staff Only .

Non-members using the library are asked to pay $2 each time they come, and we charge $1 per hour for use of microfiche readers by members and non-members. Hours of opening at Percy St are:

Wednesdays 9.30 am - 12.30 pm and 7-9 pm during daylight saving
Saturdays 1.30 - 4.30 pm

For visitors to Hobart, appointments may be made to use the library out-of-hours (ph 47 6313).

If this article hasn't made clear all you ever wanted to know about the Society's central library (and perhaps a bit you'd rather not know), don't hesitate to ask the Librarian or assistants. Don't forget each branch has its own library all of which welcome visitors.

N.B. LIBRARY CEMETERY INDEX

*There will be a working bee at the Bellerive Library on Friday, 22 February 1985!
Anyone with an hour or two to spare between 9am-4pm would be most welcome. Watch Lilian Watson's articles in the Mercury closer to the date for further information.*

Notes

FOURTH AUSTRALASIAN CONGRESS ON GENEALOGY & HERALDRY, Canberra, May 1986.

Further details of this planned conference now reveal that the Governor General Sir Ninian Stephen will be patron of the Congress, and that negotiations are underway for one of Britain's most notable genealogists to be the Congress Speaker. An urgent priority for the organisers is to form an estimate of the numbers likely to participate in the Congress and to receive indications of subject interest.

Copies of the application brochure are limited, and organisers request that interested members obtain a photocopy. This will be available from our Despatch Officer.

COST OF CERTIFICATES

Certificates in NSW have gone up to $9 for a full certificate. A discount of $7 is available where a reference number from the pre-1900 microfiche is quoted.

DUBIOUS HONOUR

Which state is reputed to have the most expensive certificates in the world? Victoria! This is also the state which has not yet made any visible moves to provide access to its early registers through micro-filming.

SCOTTISH RESEARCH

The Registrar General for Scotland is currently preparing an Old Parochial Register Index, in conjunction with the Mormon Church. It lists baptisms and marriages from old Parochial Registers up to 1865. The index moves south as the northern counties are completed. Glasgow High, however, has already been done. Counties now available are Shetland, Orkney, Caithness, Sutherland, Ross and Cromarty, Nairn, Moray/Elgin, Banff, Aberdeen, Inverness and Kincardineshire. Microfiche copies are available from the Registrar General for Scotland, New Register House, Edinburgh, Scotland, EH1 3YT. Cost £1. VAT per fiche. Additions are made annually.

NEW EDITION OF IGI

A new edition is expected to be available in Australia in 1985. Keep your eyes peeled for further information.

CENSUS INDEXES

Readers of this journal have been reminded from time to time that many British Family History Societies are compiling indexes to their census returns. The Nottinghamshire census for 1881 has now been indexed and completed. Congratulations to them. Further details may be obtained from Mrs B. de Ville, 160 Musters Rd, West Bridgford, Nottingham, UK

SOCIETY OF AUSTRALIAN GENEALOGISTS

The Society's microfilm and microfiche collections have now been made more accessible by their transfer to more spacious accommodation at 8 Argyle St, Sydney, a few hundred yards north of Richmond Villa.

GERMAN RESEARCH

The September issue of Descent, the Journal of the Society of Australian Genealogists, contains, as always, extremely valuable genealogical notes, and should be consulted for up to date information on the above topic.

SOMERSET : THE PITCHFORK REBELLION

July 1985 commemorates the 300th anniversary of the Pitchfork (Monmouth) Rebellion, and the Battle of Sedgemoor, which resulted in Judge Jeffry's "Bloody Assize" and the transportation or execution of a large number of agricultural labourers. Many exciting commemorative events are being planned by the Somerset County authorities. Dr Bob Dunning, the County Historian, writes that 4,000 names of Monmouth supporters are known, as well as the villages and towns from where they came. The Somerset and Dorset Family History Society has promised to offer advice to anybody, anywhere, who has reason to believe that their ancestors could have fought with Monmouth or his opponents, the Royal Army.

Dr Dunning says "If they would write to me in person, I will happily make initial enquiries on their behalf, pass on their letters to local experts and generally keep them in touch with this exciting event.

Address: C/- Somerset Tourist Office, County Hall, Taunton, Somerset TAI 4DY, England.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA

The Mortlock Library of South Australia will shortly be established. Archival government records will be relocated and archival services closed from 12.11.1984 to 7.12.1984. There may be restriction of access to records following the period of closure, but archival services will resume at North Terrace on 10 December 1984.

Mr H.D. Poole, Les Canebieres 451, 83490 Le Muy, France, writes: "I had occasion to write a few pages on Elementary Advice on Family History Searching in France. If by any chance one of your members were at some time thinking of doing that in the course of a visit to Europe, I should be glad to send him/her a copy."

Mr Poole received help from our Society and several members when researching his TOOGOOD ancestry, and offers assistance to anyone researching in France.

1988 - 200 YEARS OF EUROPEAN SETTLEMENT IN AUSTRALIA

by Shirley Johnson

Nearly all Tasmanian municipalities now have bicentennial committees and we as a Society have a great deal of valuable historical information on European settlement in Australia. If you have any suggestions for suitable projects within Tasmania, please send them to either your branch committee or the State Executive - indicating whether you are able to help with the implementation of the project! Three projects already under way are:

1. Historical Costumes

This is being researched by the Arts Council. The aims are to collect information on clothing worn by the early European immigrants (male, female, adult, child, free or otherwise) and help interested people reproduce them for personal or group use. If you have any heirloom clothing, in any condition, this is an ideal time to ask for help in preserving it (and having it recorded at the same time!). Hopefully, in 1985 a pilot scheme will operate in Hobart for people wanting to make authentic costumes for bicentennial functions. If this interests you, let's make it a success and have similar state-wide schemes in 1986-7. If you have or want information, please contact Diana Ward, Salamanca Centre, 77 Salamanca Place, Hobart, 7001. Phone (002)233828 (office).

2. Lindisfarne - Social History

The librarian of the Lindisfarne Library, Thea Stephens, is currently collecting material from the area between the two bridges (Tasman and Bowen) as a personal bi-centennial project. It is hoped that this will eventually be published. If you have photos, documents, ferry tickets etc. from this area, Thea would be delighted to hear from you. Material can be copied or kept for you in their growing "Lindisfarne Collection" If you can help or want information, please contact Thea Stephens, Lindisfarne Library, Lincoln St, Lindisfarne. 7015 or phone (002) 438438.

3. Risdon Cove - Settlement Plan

The Clarence Council Bicentennial Committee will soon be discussing proposals for what to suggest as a state-wide project for our first settlement site. If you have any suggestions on what should or should not be done, please contact the Genealogical Society representative on this committee - Shirley Johnson, 6 Kent St, Lindisfarne, 7015. Phone (002) 43 7486 (home).

NORTHUMBERLAND: Here lies my wife in earthly mould
Who when she lived did naught but scold.
Good friends go softly in your walking
Lest she should wake and rise up talking.

INTERNATIONAL GENEALOGICAL CONGRESS

The Fourth Australasian Congress on Genealogy & Heraldry will be held in Canberra from 8-11 May 1986. An enthusiastic Committee, drawn from members of the Heraldry & Genealogy Society of Canberra is already heavily involved in planning for this major International event in the Genealogy calendar. It is expected that principal speakers will be drawn from Britain, America and New Zealand as well as from Australian states and territories.

The Australian National University Campus will be the venue for most of the lectures, seminars and workshops.

In addition to the attraction of this Congress, Canberra also has several outstanding facilities for undertaking research such as the Australian War Memorial and the National Library. Further information from Secretary, Fourth Australasian Congress in Genealogy and Heraldry, GPO Box 666, Canberra, ACT. 2601.

Book Reviews

Family History Research in New Zealand - a Beginner's Guide.

(Written and compiled by Arne Bromell. Publ NZ Society of Genealogists Inc, PO Box 8795, Auckland, New Zealand.

This 28-page guide is invaluable for anyone researching New Zealand ancestry. It is also an excellent model for other societies contemplating a similar production. There is a four-page introduction to general principles of family research, followed by details of New Zealand registers and record repositories.

There are samples of pedigrees and family group sheet charts, copies of birth and death registration forms before and after 1876, and of marriage forms before and after 1880. The size of the publication enables these to be reproduced in clear detail.

A most attractive feature of this guide is a series of maps, illustrating the distribution of early Maori tribes, later Maori population, European contact and settlement, population changes in provinces, and shipping routes and roading around 1880. The author makes the point that, unless the researcher is familiar with the history of settlement, research will be hindered. Patterns of transport and gold discoveries affected population distribution.

The final items are a check list of sources and a short bibliography. No price is quoted. If any New Zealand readers see this review, please prompt someone to tell us the cost plus postage!

ARCHIVAL MATERIAL AT UNIVERSITY OF TASMANIA

Miss Shirley King, Archivist of the University of Tasmania, writes:- "There appears to be some confusion amongst members of the G.S.T. about the University Archives and even more about the Archives of the Catholic Archdiocese. I enclose brief notes about both of them, which I hope might clarify the situation."

1. UNIVERSITY OF TASMANIA ARCHIVES

The University's archives are the official administrative records of the University, kept for future reference by the officers of the University for administrative purposes. Example are minutes of the University's Council and committees, correspondence files of the Registrar's Department, financial records, copies of the annual Calendar of the University of Tasmania, which includes lists of staff, examination requirement and names of students who passed, etc. The University Archives exists primarily to serve the University's own administration but the records (except for a few recent records of a confidential or personal nature) are normally available for research relating to tertiary education and other relevant topics.

2. ARCHIVES OF THE CATHOLIC ARCHDIOCESE, OF HOBART

The University has also accepted custody in its archives strong room of a few archives of local businesses, settler families, pastoral properties and other institutions deposited on loan for safekeeping. These are of particular interest for social and economic history of Tasmania, especially in the mid-nineteenth century (but no genealogical records) and they have been included in the cumulative Guide to Collections of Manuscripts Relating to Australia, Canberra, Nat Lib 1965 - (available in some reference libraries). Deposited archives are normally available for research, although in some cases prior permission from owners may be necessary, especially for any copying of extracts.

Access to the University Archives and the deposited archives is by appointment. Owing to the present shortage of staff and space, researchers are requested to write their preliminary inquiry, stating the documents needed, the dates and also the type of information they are seeking. This will allow the Archivist time to check whether the documents are available for the dates needed and what alternative sources may also be available and to arrange for the documents to be in the reading room for the researcher at a suitable time.

The Diocesan Archives holds primarily the non-current (or historical) records of the diocesan (central) administration. These do not include genealogical records but correspondence and records kept by the bishops. The most significant material is the correspondence of the first bishop, R.W. Willson 1844-1866, mainly with Government officials and Archbishop Polding of Sydney (see J.H. Cullen, 'Bishop Willson' in Australasian Catholic Record 1950-1952). Archbishop Murphy, 1866-1907, destroyed most of his records so there is little for that period. There are some records of Archbishop Delaney, 1907-1926, and of his successors, but in general records later than 1900 are still in current administrative use.

Local parish records, including registers of christenings, are the responsibility of parish priests. They are encouraged to deposit early (ie pre-1900) records in the Diocesan Archives, but as the early register books of most churches include entries up to the present day, they are still needed by parish priests for current use, so only a few are held centrally. Christening (or baptism) registers record the date of christening (becoming Christian), the new Christian's name, the signature of the priest, names of parents and sponsors ('Godparents') and date of birth (if known). They are, however, the church's own record of its sacraments and are, naturally, not as detailed as the official civil registers of births. Marriage registration was required by the Tasmanian Marriage Act of 1838 and the record was sent to the Government Registrar-General by the officiating minister in the form laid down by the Act, recording, before 1896, only the names of the couple, usually with age and rank or occupation, names of witnesses and officiating priest and the place and date of marriage. The duplicate copy kept by the church has no additional information. Catholic churches in this diocese did not usually keep registers of deaths or burials. Note too, that there are few church records earlier than 1844. The register kept by the first priest, Fr. Conolly, 1822-1836, was incorporated into the Registrar-General's records and the diocese only has a duplicate copy of his copy.

As the Archdiocese has at present no suitable premises for archives storage, arrangements were made to store the early Archdiocesan Archives in the University's archives store, but the Archdiocesan Archives still remains under the control of the Archdiocese and is not part of the University Archives. Historians who wish to consult diocesan records, such as the Willson correspondence, for research may write a preliminary inquiry to the University Archivist, GPO Box 252C, Hobart, Tas 7001, stating concisely what documents they need and the information they are seeking. If the records are available, the request will be referred to the Archbishop for permission to consult them and arrangements made for them to be seen in the University's Archives Reading Room by appointment.

Please note, however, that registers of baptisms before 1901 are being microfilmed and from early 1985 the microfilms will be available for consultation in the State Archives Office of Tasmania (NOT the University Archives). Requests for a record of church baptism later than 1900 should still be addressed (in writing) to the parish priest of the church concerned.

The Fortunes of Florence

by Robina Best, formerly Cooper
(nee Inglis)

Florence WILKINSON arrived in Australia with her parents in 1875 from Leeds, England, to settle in New South Wales. She married John LEE in Woolongong; John Lee was born in London and emigrated from Cornwall to Australia. Florence and John Lee left Woolongong to settle at Zeehan, Tasmania, during the mining boom. They eventually had three daughters. Their venture in Zeehan was prosperous, until tragedy struck with John Lee losing his life in a mining accident, in a successful attempt to save the life of his partner, Mr J. McAULIFFE in 189

Florence was left with the task of caring for daughters, aged 5 months, 2 years and 4 years. As, at this stage, there was no welfare assistance, this was no easy task. With her savings she built several small houses, suitable for miners to rent. The rent from these was added to what she earned with her needle, with which she had great talent. Through her planning and industry she was able to support herself and family. Tragedy struck once more when her houses were burnt down during a bush fire. This to the young widow was a terrible blow, but she battled on earning what she could with her sewing. At this time Zeehan was on the decline and residents were burning their houses for insurance. During these fires Florence's own home was burnt down but, alas, she was uninsured. The insurance premiums had been beyond her limited means. Fate was certainly working against this brave and courageous lady. Not giving up the struggle, she rented a small house and kept on with her sewing and managed to add to her income by growing vegetables and keeping fowls. This modest living was becoming more difficult, as the population was decreasing rapidly, and her work was in less demand. One of the towns builders, George COOPER, contracted to build her a house, payment was to be when she could manage it in instalments. A friendship developed between Florence and George and in due course blossomed into marriage. Florence, small, dainty, very attractive and with her lady-like manner, plus her ability to work 'around' the difficulties of life, was a very eligible wife. George Cooper was a cultured and happy man, and he was remembered as going about his building work singing favourite parts of operas. Florence and George became parents of four daughters and one son - George Edward Cooper (whom I married).

As work was so short in Zeehan, Florence and George moved to Strahan, which was now booming as a port, due to mining activity at Mt Lyell. Life in Strahan was prosperous and happy, it would seem fortune was smiling on the couple. Houses were being built and also being dismantled in Zeehan for re-erection in Strahan. George obtained the contract for this work. Whilst working in Zeehan George contracted typhoid fever which was rife at the time. He was very ill and almost died. He recovered, but his health was poor and prevented him working and he lost the contract. Now Florence and George moved to Lyell as houses were being built there. George found his health still would not stand up to the constant work usually in trying weather. George next obtained work in the mines, timbering, which involved erecting props for shafts and walling shafts. Once again his health and strength failed, his muscles were weakening and hard work was out of the question. Florence and George now shifted down to Queens-town from Gormanston, schooling being better. The technical high school was established and their son George had qualified for it. This was a good move as their son proved a brilliant pupil, winning several scholarships. Florence during these years had supported the family. George Cooper Snr. died in 1919 and Florence was again on her own. There were three children of school age to rear and educate, and she managed to do it! Through all her hardships, Florence remained a dignified person, her gentle ways unchanged by living in mining towns. To me, she was always a friend and adviser and it is an honour to have known her. Like so many of our pioneers, the hard lives and achievements of Florence, John and George went unsung.

- Charles COOPER, cabinet maker and wheelwright, England, arrived in Hobart on 'Harret Nathan' 1854. He owned a carpenter's shop in Elizabeth St, Hobart. Married Ann FAULKNER who arrived on 'Dutchess of Northumberland from Dublin in 1854.
- George COOPER, son of above, born 1866 in Hobart. Cabinet maker; married Florence LEE (nee WILKINSON) in Zeehan.
- George Edward COOPER son of above, born 1905 in Gormanston. Pattern maker, carpenter & joiner. Married Robina Stirling INGLIS born 1914, in Peebleshire, Scotland, daughter of Robert Stirling INGLIS and Elizabeth macneill (Scot).

From THE MERCURY dated 7 January 1873:

"Sir, Years ago, and long before many a reader who scans this paper came into being, "Rat's Castle" on Langlow's Hill, with its old gowns, rags, and tatters, filling up its window panes, was the Catholic Church, and the two bow windows we see now, and which glance with a curious eye at the elegant edifice across the street - lent the light that taught good things to a gone by generation. Father Connolly was the high priest then, and this good man preceded no less a better than himself, in the benevolent Father Terry. Then the amiable Bishop Willson gladdened the hearts of all who met him, no matter of what creed, therefore we will say:-

Sacred to the memory of these good men.

Well, in Father Connolly's time, all that square of the city on which the nunnery stands now, and whereon too the cathedral points with broken pinnacles to the sky, was granted as a glebe to the Roman Catholic faith, and all along its top boundary there stood, until lately, deep green cherry trees of our native kind, under which the aborigines used to shade themselves, and pick off the fruit, whilst the good old priest sat by. About this spot stood the graceful peppermint tree, the solemn eucalyptus and here and there a fragrant box shrub presented its white blossoms to the traveller. This place was tastefully chosen as a burial ground in those days, and although few of the many that lie there now had a "stone to show what was", still there were some over whose remains memorials were erected. Here are the inscriptions of:

- | | |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1. Here lie the remains of
PATRICK MONTGOMERY
Native of Antrim in Ireland
Died Sept 20th 1827
Aged 52 years | 2. Sacred to the memory of
EDWARD COSTLOW
Who departed this life 19 Sep 1826
Aged 18 years |
| 3. Sacred to the memory of
JAMES GUBBY
Who died Dec 12, 1825
Aged 32 years | 4. Sacred to the memory of
JOSEPH THOMSON
A private soldier in the Light
Company of the 40th Regt
Who was killed by bushrangers when in the execution of his duty on
6th August 1825, Aged 25 years. |

Until within the last year or two, the trees we have spoken of waved to the winds, and added a graceful ornament to the hill side of the city. But now the cherry trees are ringed, and stand up skeletons; the limbs of the peppermint and gum trees are lopped off, while what remains of them, appear like as many mutilated sentinels shrieking for help to the town below. Go and see for yourself, gentle reader, and there you'll witness the tombstone of the boy of 25, broken in three and thrown against the wall! And the slab that was erected to the memory of Joseph Thomson half a century ago, smashed down too, and its fragments lying beside a murdered gum tree. All this has taken place within the last six months, and that beneath the shadow of a cathedral - the gloom of a convent - and in what is called a Christian burial ground. Surely, this is or ought to be, something to sigh about. I have brought away with me the broken-off top of the soldier's tomb, because I think it a curiosity. Some good fellow painted upon it in oils, within a black ground, a figure of Christ on the cross; and strange to see, the flesh colour of the work is still real and mellow, but of course, the other colours have faded. Still, there it is after fifty years' battling against the elements. Any, now, when perhaps all the dead soldier's 'Company' are with him for ever.

When all who wish have seen this fragment, please find it over to the museum, so that the soldier boy who was shot by the bushrangers, and the good fellows who mourned over him, shall not be forgotten. Now, if these facts are not contradicted, what an everlasting disgrace must rest upon the men whose duty it is to watch over the graves of the departed. And then again, since this happened only just now, what a curse upon humanity, and a blight upon the year of our Lord, one thousand eight-hundred and seventy-three.

MARKSMAN"

If 'Marksman' could see this scene today, nearly 112 years later, he might find it difficult to picture his ringbarked, mutilated trees and broken, uncared for stones amongst the well kept buildings and playing fields of St Virgils College in Barrack St, Hobart. Unfortunately, apart from a few stones which may have been removed by the families of those interred, the only record of those buried in the old Hobart Catholic cemetery is a list of the monumental inscriptions on the site about 1916, just prior to the removal of the remains of those persons buried there to Cornelian Bay. The cemetery was in use from 1825 to 1872 and no register of burials appears to have been kept - none was in existence at the time the list of surviving stones was made.

We are very grateful to the Archbishop of Hobart who gave permission for a copy of this list to be deposited in our library at Bellerive and to Miss Shirley King at the University of Tasmania Archives where the Catholic Archdiocese of Hobart Archives are housed.

JOURNAL

Family History News & Digest - from the Federation of Family History Societies.

This is published in England but gives an outline of what is happening in many places.

It is a quarterly journal which we obtain in bulk and sell to our members for $2.50 + postage. A list of those who wish to reserve copies is at the GST Library, Bellevue, to which names can be added. Only a few extra copies are ordered each quarter.

Branches can obtain any of the above for resale or orders can be placed through Despatch Office. PLEASE ADD POSTAGE.

Photocopies of articles in earlier issues of Tasmanian Ancestry can be supplied.

MEMBERSHIP IN THE GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY OF TASMANIA

is open to all interested in Genealogy, whether resident in Tasmania or not. Assistance is given to help trace overseas ancestry as well as Tasmanian.

Dues are payable each year by April.

Rates of subscriptions are as follows:

Members	$25.00
Joint Members (Any Two persons at one address)	$20.00
Corporate Members	$20.00
Student, Pensioner or unemployed over 6 mths	$10.00

Membership entitlements include receipt of the Society's journal, TASMANIAN ANCESTRY. (NOTE: If Air-mail postage to overseas members is required extra costs will need to be paid)

Members are entitled to free access to the Society's libraries, and reduced rates for purchase of certain other publications. Access to the libraries of some other societies has also been arranged on a reciprocal basis, and an Accommodation Register arrangement with other states can be used by researchers.

Application for Membership forms can be obtained from Branch or GST Secretary and can be returned with appropriate dues to a Branch Treasurer, or sent from out of state to the GST Treasurer c/- Box 6400, G.P.O., Hobart 7001. Dues will also be accepted at Branch General Meetings or at the Library.

The Central library is at 3 Percy Street, Bellarine, and some branches also have a library. Access is free to members but all users of the International Genealogical Index (I.G.I., Cent. Europe, Misc which contains data for Australia etc) are asked for a small fee. Books, journals from various genealogical societies, index to transcribed timetables, register of family names and family charts are at the library and books and notes may be purchased here.

Donations to the Library fund ($5 & over) are an allowable tax deduction. Gifts of family records, books, maps, photographs etc. are most welcome.

Research is handled on a voluntary basis in each branch. Simple queries from members and the public will be answered upon receipt of postage and envelop. A register of Member's research interests is kept in a card file and reference to this file will be made for distant members. Cemetery transcription index may also be helpful. Non-members may obtain data from this index and have their family names entered in this file for $1. Duplication of research is often avoided by so doing.

A list of members willing to undertake record-searching on a PRIVATE basis can be obtained if records outside the GST library are required. The Society takes no responsibility for such private arrangements.

Advertising for TASMANIAN ANCESTRY is accepted with pre-payment. $15 per quarter page in one issue, or $40 for 4 issues; $60 for 6 page and $100 for a full page in 4 issues.

CLERICAL ASSISTANCE is always required as all branches transcribe cemetery and timetables records. Branch officers or TAMBOT co-ordinators would welcome offers of help, the tasks are simple and often increase friendships. The Society's librarian also welcomes similar assistance, phone 0-2-476311, and such tasks can often be done at home.

Library Hours 3 Percy Street, Bellarine: Wednesday 9.30 - 12.30; Saturday 1.30 - 4.30, or by arrangement.
